

“The City Built for Family Living”

Finance Department

August 19, 2013,

Mayor and City Council Members:

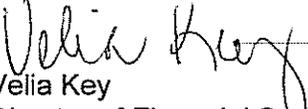

The Finance Department is pleased to submit the Unaudited Monthly Financial Report for the month of April 2013. All required data has been submitted to Gabriel Roeder Smith & Company. The actuarial calculations are prepared for the purpose of complying with the requirements of GASB 45.

Total revenues exceeded expenditures in all of the major funds of the City with the exception of the Golf Course Fund. The Golf Course operating expenses exceeded operating revenues by $117,385 at month-end. The fund collected $24,770 of the budgeted revenues in April 2013. The General Fund continues to cover the deficit in the Golf Course, and City staff continues to monitor the expenses in the Golf Course Fund.

The key economic indicators provide some insight for the financial activity of the City. Sales tax revenue collections for the month of April showed a decrease of $579 in collections in comparison to the prior year. The number of active water utility accounts showed an increase of 51 accounts in comparison to the number of active accounts as of April 2012. The hotel occupancy tax revenue collections decreased by $9,349 in comparison to collections in April 2012. The unemployment rate in the Killeen/Fort Hood region showed a decrease in comparison to the percentage as of April 2012. City staff will continue to monitor revenues and expenditures in all City funds and evaluate the impact of key economic indicators on the City's financial position.

We hope regular monitoring of the City's financial position will continue to provide the City Council with information that is useful for making sound policy decisions.

Respectfully submitted,

Velia Key
Director of Financial Services

Month in Cash: Easing has to end sometime

May 1, 2013

Despite somewhat weaker economic releases in March and the early part of April, first quarter 2013 Gross Domestic Product (GDP) came in at 2.5%, a step up from fourth quarter 2012's anemic 0.4% increase. While GDP may have missed estimates, which had been expecting 3.0% growth, and there have been fits and starts in this recovery, key sectors such as employment and housing seem to be on positive paths, and the recovery as a whole is on fairly firm footing. While nothing immediate is expected, if these trends continue the improving economic picture is likely to spark some modification to the Federal Reserve's monthly purchases of $85 billion in longer-term Treasury and agency mortgage-backed securities.

It's too early to tell how the modification might be configured, and whether it would involve cutting back on reinvestments of payments, or even which sectors might be targeted. It's also unlikely any changes will come before the second half of 2013. Once modifications to QE begin, however, the yield curve is expected to steepen and purchases out in the six- to 12-month range should begin to look more attractive. Certainly, the Fed is not likely to move the 0% to 0.25% federal funds target rate until well into 2014, but the adjustments to QE will have some effect on the yield curve. We believe the sentiment that this low-rate environment will go on into infinity seems to be somewhat overdone. As a result, Federated's money funds have been slightly shorter in weighted average maturity, on a barbell basis, than they had been previously, with some additional concentration in floating-rate securities in order to be in a more responsive position when the steepening of the yield curve does start to happen.

While the asset-backed commercial paper sector has not yet begun to grow, it's no longer shrinking, as it had been for the past few years, and that's a good thing. The underlying receivables have been doing very well, with auto loans and credit cards performing with minimal loss. We've seen more issuers and a higher volume. The spread in the asset-backed commercial paper market has dwindled, and is not as attractive as it once was, but it's still an active marketplace, and is expected to grow in the second half of 2013 as the economy continues to improve.

Overnight repurchase agreement (repo) rates had hovered in the upper end of the 0% to 0.25% target range, at around 22-23 basis points, throughout the second half of 2012. In the first quarter of 2013, however, repo rates dipped lower, in the 14-16 basis-point range. There

Definition of Weighted Average Maturity (1) & (2)

*(1) "WAM Days" is the mean average of the periods of time remaining until the securities held in TexPool (a) are scheduled to be repaid, (b) would be repaid upon a demand by TexPool, or (c) are scheduled to have their interest rate readjusted to reflect current market rates. Securities with adjustable rates payable upon demand are treated as maturing on the earlier of the two dates set forth in (b) and (c) if their scheduled maturity is 397 days or less; and the later of the two dates set forth in (b) and (c) if their scheduled maturity is more than 397 days. The mean is weighted based on the percentage of the amortized cost of the portfolio invested in each period.

*(2) "WAM Days" is calculated in the same manner as the described in footnote 1, but is based solely on the periods of time remaining until the securities held in TexPool (a) are scheduled to be repaid or (b) would be repaid upon a demand by TexPool, without reference to when interest rates of securities within TexPool are scheduled to be readjusted.

Definition of Average Monthly Yield (3)

*(3) This current yield for TexPool Prime for each date may reflect a waiver of some portion or all of each of the management fees.

was then some further softening toward the end of April, down to 5-7 basis points in few instances, before rates bounced back up into the mid-teens again. Repo rates are likely to stay in that mid-teen range for the remainder of the second quarter. As a result, we have positioned funds to have less exposure to overnight repos than has historically been the case.

Dysfunctionality remains well in force in Washington, and the battling factions are heading toward another showdown on May 19, when the Congressional suspension of the nation's borrowing limit is due to run out. With little more than two weeks to go before the deadline, there is little, if any, talk of a compromise solution, and more troubling, little concern on Capitol Hill that we're this close without any substantive discussion taking place. The sequester cuts first enacted on March 1 continue on course without a fix in sight. We've seen some public pressure come to bear on Congress from airport delays related to cutbacks in air traffic controllers, but little else has made headlines, despite the negative effects federal spending cutbacks seem to be having on the recovery. From a money market standpoint, in terms of short-term rates and supply, there has not been much impact—yet.

90-Day Treasury Bill is a short-term debt instrument backed by the national government. These are used to collect immediate cash to meet outstanding obligations.

Any private investor can invest in a Treasury bill. The 90-Day Treasury Bill is a weighted average rate of the weekly auctions of 90-Day Treasury Bills.

Definition of Weighted Average Maturity (1) & (2)

(1) This weighted average maturity calculation uses the SEC Rule 2a-7 definition for stated maturity for any floating rate instrument held in the portfolio to determine the weighted average maturity for the pool. This Rule specifies that a variable rate instrument to be paid in 397 calendar days or less shall be deemed to have a maturity equal to the period remaining until the next readjustment of the interest rate.

(2) This weighted average maturity calculation uses the final maturity of any floating rate instruments held in the portfolio to calculate the weighted average maturity for the pool.

Economic Commentary

Global risk markets reached new record highs in April as investors largely ignored weak economic data and took solace in the continued accommodative support from central banks. The Standard & Poor's 500 Index ended up 1.8%, its sixth straight month of gains. The yield of the two-year Treasury note fell 4 bps to 0.21%, and the yield of the five-year note decreased 9 bps to 0.68%. The U.S. also experienced poorer economic data particularly in the labor market. The worsening backdrop in Europe and U.S. assured investors that the ECB and Fed would continue to keep monetary policy accommodative at their upcoming meetings in May and in the long run. Inflation remains low and appears to be decelerating. Low income growth should continue to limit inflation, and a number of FOMC participants have recently argued that a case for additional easing could be warranted if inflation levels continue to fall.

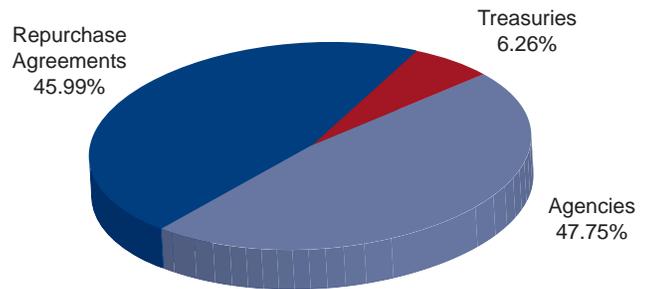

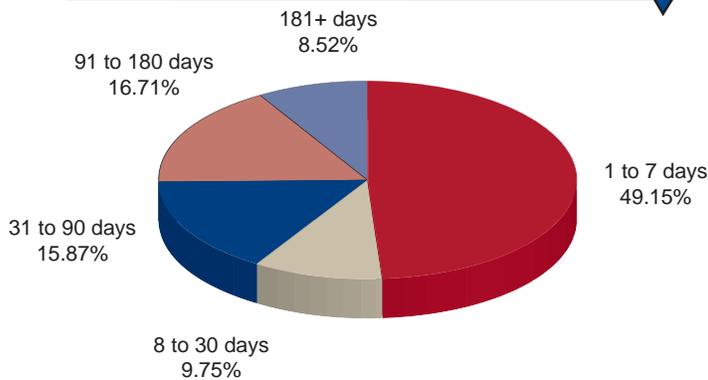

The U.S. economy appears to be experiencing a spring swoon for the fourth year in a row. Heading into the first quarter, many economists expected the slow pace of fourth quarter growth to provide positive momentum going forward. Some of this prior growth was due to transitory variables, such as a fast pace of inventory accumulation after Hurricane Sandy and an increase in energy consumption due to an unseasonably cold winter. However, other data now suggest that the slowdown may persist as future consumer consumption will likely be restricted by an already low savings rate. Additionally, the stagnant state of labor markets and the large overhang of unemployed workers make it unlikely that wage growth will be the impetus for accelerating consumption. The recent rollout of sequestration fiscal cuts is dragging on economic growth, and its effects are expected to grow in the upcoming quarters. Also, growth out of emerging markets as well as Europe appears set to disappoint in the quarters ahead. It is expected that the Fed will maintain its current pace of monthly purchases through 2013, with the potential to increase Treasury purchases if labor market conditions deteriorate significantly. Also it is anticipated that interest rates will move lower and test the lower band of the recent range in the second quarter, though technical factors may create some temporary volatility.
