“The City Built for Family Living”

Finance Department

June 11, 2012,

Mayor and City Council Members:

The Finance Department is pleased to submit the Unaudited Monthly Financial Report for the month of April 2012. The FY 2012-2013 budget process is in progress. The proposed budget is scheduled to be presented to City Council at the July 17, 2012, Council meeting.

Total revenues exceeded expenditures in all of the major funds of the City with the exception of the Golf Course Fund. The Golf Course operating expenses exceeded operating revenues by $116,550 at month-end. The fund collected $36,188 of the budgeted revenues in April 2012. The General Fund continues to cover the deficit in the Golf Course, and City staff continues to monitor the expenses in the Golf Course Fund.

The key economic indicators provide some insight for the financial activity of the City. Sales tax revenue collections for the month of April showed a 4% increase in collections in comparison to the prior year. The number of active water utility accounts showed an increase of 82 accounts in comparison to the number of active accounts as of April 2011. The hotel occupancy tax revenue collections decreased by $3,681 in comparison to collections in April 2011. The unemployment rate in the Killeen/Fort Hood region showed a decrease in comparison to the percentage as of April 2011. City staff will continue to monitor revenues and expenditures in all City funds and evaluate the impact of key economic indicators on the City's financial position.

We hope regular monitoring of the City's financial position will continue to provide the City Council with information that is useful for making sound policy decisions.

Respectfully submitted,

Velia Key
Director of Financial Services

Month in Cash: Steady as she goes...

May 1, 2012

London interbank offered rates (Libor) were virtually unchanged last month as the domestic economy continued to plod along with a few hiccups and a very proactive European Central Bank (ECB) provided the necessary mechanisms to assure liquidity for European banks. While some European countries continue to struggle with debt issues, the market appears to be comfortable with the support that European banking institutions are getting from the ECB—even if the banks are using the funds more to shore up their balance sheets than to do much good for their respective countries' economies.

Domestically, the initial estimate of first-quarter growth came in slightly below expectations, but not enough to derail our view that the economy is on a sustainable albeit very modest growth path. That's not to say that general uncertainty isn't weighing on the markets. While expectations are that a number of banking institutions may be downgraded by Moody's Investors Service, the ratings agency has pushed off the announcement of its review of U.S. and European banks until May, forcing the money markets to wait and see which and how many institutions might be effected.

Fed sees slight improvement

As expected, there were no great surprises at the conclusion of the late April meeting of Federal Reserve policymakers. The tweaks that were made to the policy language tended to reflect a slightly more optimistic view of the economy, with a modest upgrade in the Fed's forecasts for growth and the unemployment rate this year. Perhaps most notably, the Fed's anonymous vote on the timing and pace of monetary policy tightening pushed the potential move on the target federal funds rate up a bit, though the official statement stuck to the "exceptionally low levels" at least through "late 2014" language. Of 17 participants, three thought the Fed would tighten by the end of this year and three thought it would start next year—the same as January's inaugural vote. What did change is that seven thought tightening could occur in 2014, up from five previously, and four thought it would start in 2015, up from two in January (the other two previously didn't see any movement until 2016). There was more evidence of disagreement within the confines of the Fed as to what "exceptionally low" means, though it seemed clear that Fed Chairman Ben Bernanke sees no ambiguity: exceptionally low means the current 0% to 0.25% range.

Definition of Weighted Average Maturity (1) & (2)

*(1) "WAM Days" is the mean average of the periods of time remaining until the securities held in TexPool (a) are scheduled to be repaid, (b) would be repaid upon a demand by TexPool, or (c) are scheduled to have their interest rate readjusted to reflect current market rates. Securities with adjustable rates payable upon demand are treated as maturing on the earlier of the two dates set forth in (b) and (c) if their scheduled maturity is 397 days or less; and the later of the two dates set forth in (b) and (c) if their scheduled maturity is more than 397 days. The mean is weighted based on the percentage of the amortized cost of the portfolio invested in each period.

*(2) "WAM Days" is calculated in the same manner as the described in footnote 1, but is based solely on the periods of time remaining until the securities held in TexPool (a) are scheduled to be repaid or (b) would be repaid upon a demand by TexPool, without reference to when interest rates of securities within TexPool are scheduled to be readjusted.

Definition of Average Monthly Yield (3)

*(3) This current yield for TexPool Prime for each date may reflect a waiver of some portion or all of each of the management fees.

It's also noteworthy for what the Federal Open Market Committee didn't do—make any commitment to potential new quantitative easing when its current program of purchasing longer-term Treasury securities with proceeds from the sale of shorter-term securities runs its course next month. In his press conference that followed, Bernanke did indicate that the Fed has the means and the method to carry out additional stimulus if necessary—a remark welcomed by markets concerned about an apparent recent slowing in job growth and the overall economy. So far, however, that slowing has yet to impact the repo market, where rates have remained relatively elevated compared to last year. We had been anticipating a softening of repo rates in the middle of April and got a little bit of that, but not to the extent that we had seen in the past. The combination of higher rates on overnight repos and improving credit conditions have let us venture a little further out on the yield curve and have helped money market yields rise marginally.

Definition of Weighted Average Maturity (1) & (2)

- (1) This weighted average maturity calculation uses the SEC Rule 2a-7 definition for stated maturity for any floating rate instrument held in the portfolio to determine the weighted average maturity for the pool. This Rule specifies that a variable rate instrument to be paid in 397 calendar days or less shall be deemed to have a maturity equal to the period remaining until the next readjustment of the interest rate.
- (2) This weighted average maturity calculation uses the final maturity of any floating rate instruments held in the portfolio to calculate the weighted average maturity for the pool.

Economic Commentary

At the beginning of April, markets pulled back from their strong first quarter performance, given renewed fears in Europe and weak U.S. employment data. However, markets generally stabilized over the remainder of the month as they continued to be supported by a significant amount of accommodative policy from global central banks. Economic data released during April indicated a relative slowdown in the pace of growth from the year's solid start. In particular, employment data and manufacturing demonstrated some loss of momentum. Despite high gasoline prices, consumer consumption has remained strong. First quarter real GDP rose a less-than-expected 2.2%, due to weaker government and fixed investment spending. In the U.S., the questions around future growth center around "how fast" and "how sustainable" (the latter question given likely fiscal tightening to come in 2013).

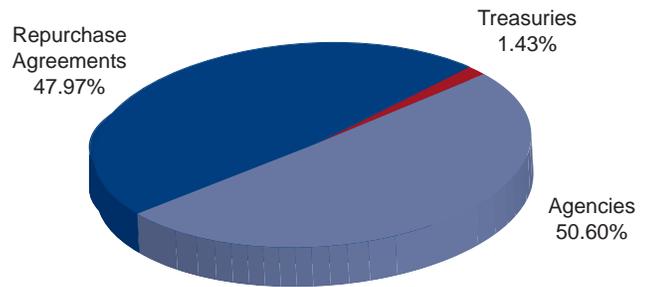

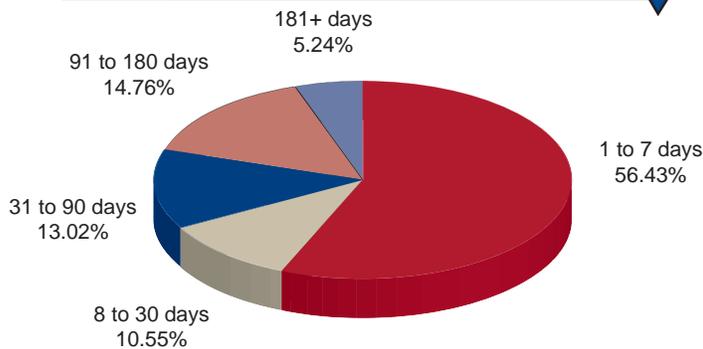

Looking out further, the potential fiscal drag in 2013 presents a significant risk to growth. Currently, the temporary extension of the 2% payroll tax cut and emergency unemployment benefits, as well as Bush-era tax cuts, are scheduled to expire at the end of 2012, and automatic fiscal spending cuts via sequestration are scheduled to begin in 2013. Congress is unlikely to address these before the November election. Without any change, we estimate that these factors combined could detract as much as 2.5% to 3.5% from GDP. The Fed noted these risks in its March FOMC meeting minutes, including the potential impact on future growth. In the near term, unless there is further deterioration in economic data, there is limited potential for any additional policy action by the Fed during their next meeting in June. However, longer term, given the lagged nature of monetary policy and the Fed's desire to proactively support the economic recovery, there is anticipated an approximately 50% probability of another round of Fed asset purchases, though this is highly contingent on the evolving fiscal environment. Expectations are that the year ahead will likely see "okay," albeit not stellar global growth, with the U.S. and a number of emerging-market economies leading the way, and Europe muddling through, all helped by accommodative central banks. That is not to say there will not be bouts of uncertainty. Indeed, May does not only have to endure the French and Greek elections, but will also face a May 31 Irish referendum on the Fiscal Compact as well as critical talks with Iran over its nuclear program.
